

THE <sup>45</sup>
ADDRESS
 OF THE
LORDS SPIRITUAL and TEMPORAL,
 AND COMMONS
 Assembled in PARLIAMENT,
 TO THE KING'S Most Excellent MAJESTY,
 For SUPPRESSING the REBELS:

WITH
 His Majesty's Most Gracious ANSWER thereunto.

E Your Majesty's Dutiful and Loyal Subjects, the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons in Parliament Assembled, having received Information, That divers Soldiers and Officers are now in Actual Rebellion, and levying War within this Kingdom against Your Majesty: And that divers other Soldiers, and Trayterously affected Persons, both within this Kingdom, and elsewhere, are conspiring with, and adhering to these Rebels and Traytors, Do therefore most humbly beseech Your Majesty jesty to take such effectual Course, as to Your Princely Wisdom shall seem meet for the suppression of this Rebellion, and bringing to Justice the Persons guilty thereof, with their Adherents. And that in the mean time Your Majesty will be graciously pleased to issue Your Royal Proclamation, declaring those Persons, and their Adherents, to be Rebels and Traytors; and requiring all Your good Subjects to Apprehend, Subdue, and Prosecute them as such; to the end, none may pretend Ignorance of his Duty by Law in this Case: The effect of such Warning we doubt not but will be a just Terror to Your Enemies, and an Encouragement to Your Loyal and Faithful Subjects. And we do humbly assure Your Majesty, That in further prosecution of that End, we shall be at all times ready to give our humble Advice and Assistance to Your Majesty, when Your Majesty shall be pleased to require it.
